Psalm LXVI, LXVII.

9 When that the earth is chapt and dry,
Then with thy drops dost thou sply
The flood of God doth overflow,
The seed and corn which men do sow;
10 With rain thou dost her furrows fill,
Thy drops on her thou dost distill,
Thou deck't the earth of thy good grace
Thy clouds distill their dew apance,
11 Whereby the desert shall begin
The little hills shall joy therein,
In places plain the flocks shall feed,
The vales with corn shall fo exceed,

Psalm LX. 66.

Ye men on earth, in God rejoice,
Exalt his might with heart and voice,
Thy foes for fear shall seek to thee
All men that dwell the earth thro'out
The laud whereof the world about
All folk, come forth, behold and see
Mark well the wondrous works that he
He laid the sea like heaps on high,
On foot to pass both fair and dry,
His might doth rule the world alway,
And such as will him disobey
Ye people give unto our God
With joyful voice declare abroad,
Who doth enue our soul with life,
It stays our feet so that no strife
The Lord doth prove our deeds with fire,
As workmen do when they desire
Although thou dost us suffer long
And there with chains and fetters strong
To lie in bondage fast.

The Second Part.

Although, I say, thou suffer men
Th'o' we through fire and water run
Yet sure thou dost, of thy good grace
Bringing us out into a place.
Unto thy house reforst will I
And there I will myself apply
The vows that with my mouth I spake.
The vows, I say, which I did make.
Burst-off rings I will give to thee
Yea, this my sacrifice shall be
Come forth and hearken here full soon,
What he for my poor foul hath done.
Full oft I call to mind his grace,
And thou, my tongue, make speedy pace.
But if I feel my heart within
Or if I have delight in sin.
But surely God my voice hath heard,
My prayer also he doth regard.
All praise to him that hath not put
Nor yet his mercy from me shut.

Psalm LX. 67.

11 Slay not, O Lord, thy chosen
And shut not up thy tender voice.
Slay not thy chosen with thine hand,
And dash not up his feet again.
12 For he is the Lord our God,
And doth make his people's seat
A habitation for his people.
13 He is the King of Israel,
And we are his people and the sheep
That pasture in the field.
14 Help us, O Lord, for thy name's sake,
And for thy glory, deliver us.
For our soul is full of complaining
Because of them that hate us.
15 Salvation we obtain;
All dangers, death and pain;
His enemies, also
In wickedness still go.
My people and my sheep,
From dangers of the deep:
Of those that hate my Name;
With lashing of the name.

Psalm LXVIII.

Let God arise, and his enemies scatter away.
The Lord is king for evermore.
Thou art the God of Truth.
All the earth doth reverence thee.
Give praise unto thy Name,
Exalt and laud the fame.
Let all the world, O God,
And let all the world, O God,
Let all the world, O Lord,
And let the people abroad,
For thou with truth and right doest guide
Great heart of fruit shall fall.
Then shall the earth increase,
And then our God, the God of peace,
7 God shall us greatly blest,
The folk which all the earth posses,
Let all the world, O God,
And let the people abroad,
For thou with truth and right doest guide
Great heart of fruit shall fall.
Then shall the earth increase,
And then our God, the God of peace,
7 God shall us greatly blest,
The folk which all the earth posses,

The Second Part.

Let God arise, and then his foes
His enemies for fear shall run,
And as wax melts before the fire,
So in the presence of the Lord.
But righteous men before the Lord,
They shall be glad and merry all.
Sing praise, sing praise unto the Lord,
Extol the great Jehovah's Name.
The name is that is above
That father is of fathers.
Houses and little both he gives
He bringeth bondmen out of thrall.
When thou didst march before thy folk,
And brought them through the wilderness.
The earth did shake, the heavens did drop,
Mount Sinai also moved was.
Therein a way they had
Whereof their hearts were glad;
His eyes all things beheld;
By him shall be controul'd,
Due laud and thanks always,
And sing unto his praise;
And it preserve withal;
Can make us slip or fall.
Whether they will abide,
To have their metals try'd,
In prison to be cast.
On us to ride and reign,
With very grief and pain;
Dipose it to the best;
To live in wealth and rest.
Offer to and pray,
My vows to thee to pay;
In all my grief and smart,
In anguish of my heart.
Of oxen fat and rams;
Of bullocks, goats, and lambs;
All ye that fear the Lord,
To you will I record;
This mouth to him doth cry;
To praise him joyfully.
In wicked work rejoice,
God will not hear my voice.
And what I do require;
And granteth my desire.
And call me out of mind,
Which I do ever find.

The Third Part.

He is the God from whom alone
He is the God by whom we 'scape
And he shall wound the head of all
The haughty of such as are.
From Bafan, will I bring, said he,
And all my own, as I have done;
And make them dip their feet in blood.
The tongues of dogs they shall be red
